Silent Harvest is a reflection of DAFOH's efforts over 20 years. In the beginning, DAFOH sought to understand the unprecedented practice of killing prisoners to harvest their organs. Because information about organ transplant and forced organ harvesting is heavily guarded by the Chinese Communist Party, it took years to gather pieces of evidence. As the full picture of this transplant abuse became clear, DAFOH released reports of its findings. Now, through this documentary, DAFOH shares with viewers its accumulated insights and knowledge on the subject. The objective of the film reflects the NGO's mission – to provide objective findings about forced organ harvesting to the medical community and the public. This documentary aims to inform medical doctors, nurses and the public about the atrocious practice of forced organ harvesting in China.
